State General Administration of China for Quality Supervision and Inspection and Quarantine
China National Regulatory Commission for Certification and Accreditation
July 1st, 2002

Overview

The Product Application Scope in Batch 1 Products Catalog for China Compulsory Certification falls into 4 columns. Column 2 and 3, “HS code” and “Commodity name and remarks”, are based on the Commodity Integrated Sorting Table of the 2002 custom clearance service system and used for the primary quick identification of the product application scope. Column 4, “Certification application scope”, is the detailed description for the product application scope, which should be used to judge whether a product belongs to the certification scope. If a HS code corresponds to a complete appliance product and its parts & components at the same time, the code corresponding certification scope refers to the complete appliance product. “Same to left” means the sameness with the HS code description. All the products that the code corresponds to belong to the catalog of products for the compulsory certification. “Not applicable” means this product category does not belong to the catalog of products for the compulsory certification. “Only for” means only this product category belongs to the catalog of products for the compulsory certification.

Duplication is forbidden without prior permission.

The catalog goes into effect since its release.
